UNITED STATES UNITED IRELAND

A United Ireland In Our Time.

Ireland is changing. In 1918 the vast majority of people across Ireland voted for Sinn Féin and a united and independent Irish Republic.

The refusal of Britain to respect the democratic wishes of the people led to a brutal war.

This year marks the centenary of the partition when the British imposed a border separating the North Eastern six counties from the remaining twenty-six counties of Ireland. This was to create a state with a permanent pro-British Unionist majority.

It led to decades of conflict, discrimination, and repression. The Northern state had powers that were the envy of apartheid South African governments and used exclusively against the catholic Irish minority.

Gerry Adams and Sinn Féin developed a peace strategy that would replace conflict with peace, discrimination with equality, and repression with justice. America was central in securing peace. In 1998 the Good Friday Peace Agreement was signed.

This Agreement obliged the British and Irish governments to legislate for Irish Unity if it was the choice of the people North and South. A peaceful and democratic pathway to Irish unity.

Almost twenty-five years on from the signing of the Good Friday Agreement and unionism can no longer command a majority. The imposition of Brexit has led the people to look to a future beyond London and are now debating the merits of Irish Unity.

An Irish Government led by Sinn Féin will plan and promote Unity. It is within our grasp.

Our objectives are simple; to secure and to win a unity referendum as provided for by the Good Friday Agreement. With your support, we can make this happen.

As Gerry Adams said, "You could be the first generation to visit a new and united Ireland".

The Rise and Rise of Sinn Féin

Sinn Féin is now the largest party across all of Ireland. The party jointly heads up the government in the North under the leadership of Sinn Féin deputy President Michelle O'Neill.

In the South, Sinn Féin is the largest party in the Dáil (Irish Parliament). We are making history. Our party President is the first woman in the history of the state to lead the official opposition (and hopefully will become the first woman Taoiseach).

With your continued support, Sinn Féin will lead the governments North and South.

Thank You For Your Support. Lets Stay In Touch
